

RUSHVILLE NOW HAS ELKS LODGE

Was Installed Here Last Night by Connersville With Twenty-Five Charter Members.

FIRST OFFICERS NAMED

Many Visitors Attended Ceremonies
in P. O. S. of A. Hall—Banquet Followed Work.

Rushville now has an Elk lodge with twenty-five charter members. The lodge was installed last night, being instituted by the Connersville lodge. Many visitors were present, Connersville sending over a delegation of fifty and Greensburg twenty. Following the work a banquet was served. The P. O. S. of A. hall was used by the Elks.

The twenty-five charter members of Rushville Lodge 1307, B. P. O. E. follow: Charles A. Frazee, John H. Kiplinger, Will C. Smith, Oliver M. Dale, T. W. Betker, George F. Weeks, T. H. Reed, Will M. Frazee, Walter F. Easley, Rich Reed, A. P. Walker, Donald L. Smith, Ed N. Hill, Frank Wilson, William J. Henley, William B. Brann, Claude Cambern, J. C. Sexton, W. S. Coleman, Will P. Jay, T. W. Lytle, Will Bliss, Vern W. Norris, W. E. Havens and Frank Capp.

The officers of the new lodge as follows: Charles A. Frazee, exalted ruler; John H. Kiplinger, esteemed leading knight; Will Smith, esteemed lecturing knight; O. M. Dale, secretary; Will P. Jay, treasurer; William B. Brann, tiler, T. H. Reed, Claude Cambern and Will Frazee, trustees.

The original petition for an Elks lodge here contained one hundred and three names but it was necessary to cut this down to twenty-five as the charter would contain only this number. It is the intention of the local lodge to take in the remaining petitioners just as soon as possible and it will be but a short time until the membership reaches one hundred. The Elks may continue to use the P. O. S. of A. hall until suitable quarters are found. It is the intention of the Elks to buy a home and they hope to be permanently situated by next spring.

The petition for the Rushville lodge was the last one to be granted to a city with less than ten thousand population as the grand lodge made the change shortly after the Rushville petition was sent in that body.

FUNERAL TO BE SATURDAY

Former Postmaster of Lewisville,
J. B. Clawson, Died Thursday.

John B. Clawson, age sixty-five years, died at his home in Lewisville yesterday following a protracted illness. The funeral will be held at the Lewisville Methodist church tomorrow afternoon at two-thirty o'clock and will be conducted by the Revs. J. O. Bills and Mr. Hallman. Interment will be made at Lewisville. For twelve years Mr. Clawson was postmaster at Lewisville, but three months ago he was compelled to resign because he could no longer attend to the duties of the office. He is survived by a widow and two sons, Charles of Lewisville and Ernest of Sellersburg, Ind., and five grandchildren.

In France the persons who are employed in the cultivation of the vine number 7,000,000.

FUNERAL AT MILROY CHURCH

Last Rites Over Mrs. Matilda Foster
Tomorrow.

The funeral services of Mrs. Matilda Foster, who died yesterday at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Willard Myers, near Milroy, will be held Saturday morning at eleven o'clock in the Milroy Methodist church. Mrs. Foster was eighty-seven years old and had made her home with her daughter for the past three years. Mrs. Foster had been ill for a long time and death was due to senility and a complication of diseases. Besides Mrs. Myers she is survived by a son, William Foster of this county and a daughter, Miss Mary Foster, of Urbana, Ill.

SEALS CASE STILL OCCUPIES COURT

Connersville Damage Suit May Continue Several Days—Members of Family on Stand.

PLAINTIFF DEMANDS $5,000

The damage case of Thomas Seals, administrator of the estate of Walter Seals, deceased, against the Light, Heat and Power company of Connersville, demanding $5,000 for the death of Walter Seals, continues to occupy the attention of the circuit court. The plaintiff's side of the case may be completed late this afternoon or early tomorrow morning. Members of the Seals family were the witnesses today and in the testimony an effort was made to show his earning capacity and the amount he gave towards the support of the family. In the cross-examination of Lucille Seals an effort was made to show that the family attended a party on the night after Walter was buried. Court is being held in the library because there is no heat in the court house. The room has been fitted up with a jury box and a judge's bench.

PAPERS IN SUIT NOW ON FILE HERE

Case of Kokomo Trust Company
Against Moses Vanderbark Sent From Henry County.

$7,000 DEMANDED IN COMPLAINT

The papers in the case of the Kokomo Trust company against Moses Vanderbark and Mary Vanderbark, on notes and to foreclose a mortgage, demanding $7,000, are now on file in the Rush circuit court being sent here on a change of venue from the Henry circuit court.

The case promises to be an interesting one, not only because of the amount involved but from the legal side. Vanderbark purchased the Loin store a large store in Anderson and gave three promissory notes each for $2,000 and a mortgage on his farm to the order of William H. Turner. The complaint alleges that the notes are past due and are not paid. The farm valued at $30,000, and the store at $12,000. John B. B. Simmonds guardian of Mr. Vanderbark filed a cross-complaint in which he states that Vanderbark is of unsound mind and that at one time was committed to the asylum at Richmond. He alleges that Turner knew of his condition when the transaction occurred. Vanderbark purchased the Lion store in May.

RILEY DAY MAY BE CELEBRATED

Rushville Schools Will Likely Join
With Other Schools in Poetry
Shower For Hoosier Bard.

IT WILL BE HELD OCTOBER 7

Complete Set of Riley Biographical Edition Will be Given Each of Five Highest in Contest.

Public schools throughout Indiana plan to celebrate James Whitcomb Riley's birthday, October 7, with a poetry shower, and it is not at all improbable that the Rushville schools will join in the celebration. Rushville school officials have not considered this plan, but as it was planned to remember Riley's birthday in the schools here, it is likely that the method to be employed elsewhere will be used.

Last year near the close of school it was planned to sell Riley pins at ten cents each, but was never carried out, and it is thought that the scheme will be tried out this year. When so many pins have been sold the school is presented with a picture of "The Ole Swimmin' Hole." One dollar out of every ten raised this way goes toward a fund which will be used to build a monument of Riley in Greendale, his birthplace.

The idea of holding the shower, which originated with a little school girl in Anderson, Ind., has met with the hearty approval of parents and teachers throughout the state and it is expected that school children in every city in Indiana will take part and that the poetry shower will prove the greatest demonstration ever held in honor of the birthday of the famous Hoosier.

Instructors in township schools in various parts of the state have announced that their children also will assist in making the shower a success. Several inquiries have come in from children and teachers asking for suggestions as to how the shower should be arranged.

No rules govern the poetry shower. It is up to the children entirely. The whole purpose is to give the children of Indiana their first opportunity to pay personal tributes to their poet laureate by carrying out the suggestion of the little school girl in Anderson, who, like thousands of other children throughout the land, has found such rich delight in the inimitable poetry of the Hoosier poet.

Every child knows James Whitcomb Riley. To every one of them the mention of his name brings a thrill of joy and conjures up characters who will live forever in the memory—Orphant Annie, and Raggedy Man and a hundred others.

The suggestion has been made that interest may be stimulated in the proposed poetry shower through the reading of Riley's child verse in the schools. The children may then, in happy memory of the hours spent with Riley, compose their poems, to be offered to him as their own individual tributes and messages of congratulations on his birthday.

As has been suggested, the poems may be gathered by the teachers and sent in by classes, schools or cities, or many be mailed individually by each child, so that the poems will arrive at the poet's home on Lockerbie street, Indianapolis, either on his birthday or the day previous.

After reading the poems Mr. Riley will turn them over to the committee of judges, which will be announced later and the selection of the five best poems will be made. On the Sunday following the poet's birthday,

DIVIDENDS ARE NOT TO BE TAXED

Earnings of Premiums in Mutual Insurance Companies to Be Exempt From Income Tax

DECISION AT WASHINGTON

Policy Holders Here Will Receive
News of Ruling With Delight—
Money From Their Pockets.

Holders of policies in mutual insurance companies living in this city and county doubtless will be glad to hear that the tariff conferences, which are committees from the House and Senate appointed to put the Democratic tariff bill in final shape for passage yesterday decided to exempt from the income tax proposed in the tariff bill that part of the premiums on mutual life insurance policies returned to policy holders as dividends.

Such action on the part of the conference was wholly unexpected, according to Washington dispatches, because amendments originally made by the Senate to that end had been dropped out before the bill was sent into conference.

The great mutual insurance companies of the country, many of which have agencies here, fought the proposed tax on dividends which are paid the policy holders on the grounds that it was unjust taxation. The insurance companies appeared to their policy holders who responded by flooding the mails with appeals to their congressmen and senators, urging that such dividends be made exempt.

The appeal of the policy holders evidently had its effect. The insurance companies, in asking the aid of their policy holders, pointed out that if this tax was assessed, it would of necessity result in the reduction of dividends. This gave the policy holders opportunity to argue with their representatives in Congress that the income tax would affect the poorest of their constituents, and that the assessing of such a tax on insurance policy dividends would be destroying the intent of the provision of the bill.

Under the decision reached all life insurance companies writing mutual policies and mutual marine insurance companies are treated similarly. No part of their income is exempted except that part of the premium on any policy that is returned to the policy holder as a dividend or rebate.

The senate finance committee determined on such action many weeks ago, but the amendment laid before the senate was not satisfactory and was later withdrawn at the voluntary motion of members of the finance committee.

The conferees decided that the provision was still within their jurisdiction and that they had authority to make the change. Holders of mutual insurance policies and insurance officers throughout the country have urged that such an exemption ought to be a part of the income tax provision to protect the rights of persons who hold dividend paying policies.

IS NOW COACH MAIBAUGH.

A dispatch from Tipton to the Indianapolis News has the following concerning Frank Maibaugh, formerly of the city: This city, which has been without a football team for several seasons, has a good organization this year, with a line up that will average of 160 pounds. Frank Maibaugh, an old coach, has charge of the team. The first game will be with Elwood at the fair grounds here, Sunday.

POLICE HUNTING FOR BOYS

McAllister in Indianapolis After Board Bill Jumpers.

Chief McAllister went to Indianapolis today in an effort to find some trace of C. J. Williams and R. F. Greely, the two young men that skipped the city Monday night neglecting to pay a board bill of sixteen dollars at the Scanlan House. The Indianapolis police were notified but as yet have failed to locate the two. McAllister hopes to find some clue leading to their whereabouts and eventually land them in jail here. The boys it will be remembered left the hotel by a side window and was thought to have taken the early morning train to Indianapolis.

FAREWELL SERVICE FOR REV. W. H. WYLIE

Protestant Congregations Will Unite in Sunday Evening and Retiring Pastor Will Preach.

A. D. BATCHELOR COMES OCT. 5

The protestant congregations of the city will join in a union service at the St. Paul M. E. church next Sunday evening which will be a farewell to the Rev. W. H. Wylie, the retiring pastor of the church who last week at the Indiana M. E. conference here was assigned to the pastorate of the Wall Street church in Jeffersonville. The Rev. Mr. Wylie will preach on this occasion.

Although the pastors in the M. E. conference are supposed to change the Sunday immediately following the close of the conference, arrangements are generally made for the pulpits to be supplied by the retiring ministers so they can have ample time to move. The Rev. Mr. Wylie will supply for the Rev. A. D. Batchelor, who is coming here from Martinsville and the Rev. Mr. Batchelor will supply for the Rev. W. H. Whitsett who goes to Martinsville from New Albany. The Rev. Mr. Whitsett will remain at New Albany another Sunday and the Rev. M. B. Hyde, who was assigned for that place, will remain at Greensburg. The Rev. J. H. Doddridge, who was sent to Greensburg, will supply for the Rev. Mr. Wylie at Jeffersonville where he has been for several years.

INSPECTOR TAKES CHARGE OF THE BIDS

Contract For Housing the Rushville
Postoffice Will be Awarded at Washington.

SAID TO BE AT LEAST TWO BIDS

It may be several days before the people of Rushville know who was the successful bidder for the location of the postoffice. Romus Stewart, a postoffice inspector, was here last night and took the estimates in charge. The time for receiving bids expired last night. The inspector will interview all of the bidders, it is said, and make a written report of what he learns to the department at Washington, D. C. which has this work in charge. The location of the postoffice will be determined then by the officials in the postoffice department.

Although it was not given out officially, it is reported that there were at least two estimates offered. Whether or not there were any more is not known.

TURKEYS TO BE CHEAPER

Produce Men Say Crop Will be More Plentiful and They Will Derate More Tables.

THANKSGIVING AND CHRISTMAS

Price Now Being Paid For Eggs is Highest For This Period in Five Years.

Thanksgiving and Christmas turkeys will be more plentiful and cheaper this year, according to produce jobbers who have been investigating the supply for the holiday season. Estimates show more turkeys in the state than there have been for the last three years.

Christmas turkey prices will be lower than those for Thanksgiving, due to the fact that only part of the crop will be matured by November. The highest prices that have been paid for turkeys at this time of the year for several years back are now offered. These birds are last year's crop and few are received. Jobbers offer 18c. for the younger ones, 16c. for old and 10c. for culls. These prices are 2c. above the late September bids of the last decade.

Because this winter will be marked by a scarcity of beef, fowls will be higher, jobbers say. The present bid for them is 12 cents, one cent higher than in the last few years. A decline is due, however, as spring chickens are coming to market. With chickens becoming cheaper, eggs show an advance.

The highest price for September eggs in the last five years is now being paid, 26c a dozen. This is an advance of 2 1/2c. in the last two weeks, and is at 2c to 3c. above the price any September of late years. A year ago 24c. was the September top of the market, the highest since 1909. In September, 1911 and 1912, the price was 23c. Advances are expected to continue for the next several weeks, the top market being reached in late November or early December. High prices during the excessive cold snaps of the winter are assured.

The price that has recently been paid for eggs is one that generally prevails after October 1. Hens are moulting and not laying, which is mainly responsible for the advance. Following the early moulting jobbers expect a more plentiful supply about October 1. Uncertainty is expressed as to whether a decline will come immediately upon the hens resuming laying, but once the price is up it is not easy to get it down.

REPORTS OF TWO FIGHTS

Rumor of Knightstown Attorney Being Badly Battered up.

Word from Knightstown Thursday to the effect that Charles Swain, former deputy prosecutor, and a man named Scoville had been assaulted by one or two other parties. Wednesday evening, says the Newcastle Times. According to the report, which lacks confirmation, there was one scrap at Dunreith and another one at Knightstown. Swain and Scoville are said to have been badly battered up. Swain was Scoville's attorney in a suit on account against a man named Woods, and the trial occurred here yesterday, before Squire Burr, the jury finding for the defendant. Who the other parties involved are could not be ascertained.

Only one out of every fifteen persons has both eyes in good condition.

SIR EDWARD CARSON

Heads Provisional Government
Ulsterites Have Inaugurated.

ULSTERITES PUSHING SECESSION MOVEMENT

Provisional Government Losing No Time.

Belfast, Sept. 26.—The Ulster provisional government, of which Sir Edward Carson, the leader of the Ulster Unionists, is the head, is starting out briskly.

Several committees have met and elected chairmen and other officers. Enthusiasm was the keynote of all the meetings. The Marquis of Londonderry, "General" Richardson, the commander-in-chief of the Ulster volunteers, and Captain James Craig, the Orange member of parliament, spoke at a meeting in Central hall. The energy and zeal with which all the officers assumed their duties was the feature which attracted the most attention.

Belfast for the most part is prompt and generous in its subscriptions to the $5,000,000 for supporting the dependent relatives of the volunteers who may be wounded or killed in fighting. It is said that $1,500,000 already has been subscribed.

Radical correspondents here of London papers seriously combat the Unionist claims in regard to the enthusiasm and numbers of the rank and file of the volunteers, declaring that it is notorious that the members of the Orange lodges have not joined the volunteer force to the extent that was expected. The British government still gives no sign of interfering with the movement.

The most serious difficulty would be with the postoffice. The provisional government would probably take possession of the postoffices, but there would be no post. The whole trade of the province would stand still. There would be no banking, nothing coming and nothing going out. The solution of the question would lie in the business interests. They would have only to keep cool and the difficulty would end with the cessation of business, although there might be trouble. The government is not going to prosecute Sir Edward Carson. With all his bluster and fanaticism he has kept within the law.

Jury Convicts Meissner.

Evansville, Ind., Sept. 26.—The jury in the case of Charles J. Meissner, charged with the murder of Henry Berger, saloon keeper, last June, returned a verdict in the circuit court finding him guilty of manslaughter. Meissner is seventy-two years old and the jury took his age into consideration.

DROVE GUNMEN OUT OF CAPITOL

Tennessee Legislature Wouldn't Stand for Siege.

PROBABLY PREVENTED RIOT

Fearful of a Repetition of Former Turbulent Scenes When Gunmen Seated in the Gallery of the House Attempted to Assassinate Speaker Stanton, the Latter Ordered a Search of the Statehouse and "Fired" Suspects.

Nashville, Tenn., Sept. 26.—The rigid and prompt enforcement by Speaker Stanton of the house of the general assembly of one of the most remarkable search orders on record, probably, in the history of state legislation, prevented a repetition of the turbulent and riotous scenes enacted in the house late the day before, when the speaker arbitrarily declared the session adjourned, after he had discovered the gunmen in the galleries attempting to fire upon him.

Speaking for the regular Democrats, Stanton declared that unless the floor, galleries and corridors were cleared of all the prison guards sent into the chamber by Governor Hooper and even the uniformed police placed in the corridors by Mayor Howse of Nashville to protect Speaker Stanton and other members of the Memphis delegation, that he would not permit the house to transact its business.

A committee was empowered to drive from the corridors and cloak-rooms all armed men found there, and in addition to search the private offices of the capitol officials to ascertain if they contained gunmen. Four armed prison guards, in charge of a convict in the state prison, serving a life sentence for murder, were located in the office of Governor Hooper, but were ordered to leave the statehouse at once.

Excitement was at fever pitch and partisan passion ran high, since Governor Hooper had threatened to call out the state militia in order to prevent the speaker from again rendering a ruling which would deprive the fusion forces of an opportunity to vote upon their pet force bill. Strong political pressure which was brought to bear upon the governor resulted in his rescinding his order for the state troops.

A clash between Smith, Republican, and Bejach, regular Democrat, was only narrowly averted when a hot debate occurred between the two over the latter's demand that an immediate investigation be made of the presence of the gunmen in the galleries, when they attempted the day before to assassinate Speaker Stanton and Senator Fisher. The motion was voted down. A photographer's flashlight created a small-sized panic among the members and several of them were so startled that they attempted to draw their weapons. The gunmen and police having been driven from the statehouse and around all stairways leading into the chamber to prevent any possibility of a riot, the regular Democrats continued to filibuster against the Hooper force bills and were able to secure an adjournment peacefully through a sudden illness which attacked Speaker Stanton.

The wrangle in the house is over bills seeking to insure the enforcement of prohibition, of which three have passed the senate, one prohibiting intrastate liquor shipments, another making saloons a nuisance to be abated in civil and criminal courts, and a third prohibiting shipments of liquor into the state. The fight of the friends of the bills, largely fusionists, is directed toward getting them to a vote in the house. The bills' supporters charge the opposition with attempting to defeat the bills by preventing a vote. The extra session is due to expire tomorrow.

HE SHOT HIS FATHER-IN-LAW

Linton Saloonist Uses a Gun During a Family Quarrel.

Linton, Ind., Sept. 26.—Richard Waldie, aged thirty-two, of this city, shot his father-in-law, Lase Sharp. He fired four shots, three went wild and the fourth penetrated Sharp's stomach. The shooting occurred at the Sharp country home, about six miles from here. Mrs. Waldie had sued for divorce, and it is supposed the shooting was prompted by this act.

Sharp has a feed store, and is one of the officers of the Farmers' Mutual association. Waldie has been a saloon keeper for eight years. It is believed Sharp cannot live.

Couldn't Stand Continued Wrangle.

Michigan City, Ind., Sept. 26.—Clarence Rawley, aged twenty-three, an employee in the car factory, committed suicide. His body was found by his wife in the garret, where it was hanging from a rafter. According to the wife, they had quarreled almost from the time of their marriage two years ago.

INCOME TAX BILL IS FINALLY AGREED ON

Conferees Have Settled the Main Features.

Washington, Sept. 26.—The main features of the income tax finally have been settled, the senate and house conferees having reached an agreement.

Washington, Sept. 26.—The senate and house conferees having reached an agreement, the main features of the income tax finally have been settled.

The minimum amount will be $3,000 as the senate fixed it, instead of $4,000 provided in the house bill. An additional exemption of $1,000 is allowed for a dependent husband or wife when the two are living together.

Under the bill as finally drawn it is thus possible for married persons to have an exemption of $4,000, while the best that the bachelor or the old maid can hope for is an exemption of $3,000.

Everybody who has a net income of more than $3,000 or in cases where the additional exemption applies, $4,000, will have to pay 1 per cent up to $20,000. Incomes above $20,000 will carry these additional taxes: $20,000 to $50,000, 1 per cent; $50,000 to $75,000, 2 per cent; $75,000 to $100,000, 3 per cent; $100,000 to $250,000, 4 per cent; $250,000 to $500,000, 5 per cent, and above $500,000, 6 per cent. The bill as it will emerge from conference will provide for collection at the sources in all possible cases.

RULING WIDENS SCOPE OF TRIAL

Important Victory for Sulzer's Opponents.

IT OPENS UP NEW EVIDENCE

Impeachment Managers Express Gratification Over Decision of the High Court of Impeachment That Evidence Not Mentioned in the Articles of Impeachment Will Be Admissible During the Progress of the Hearing.

Albany, N. Y., Sept. 26.—Checks unreported by Governor Sulzer and revelations of campaign gifts in money, Jacob H. Schiff's reappearance on the witness stand, and a clean-cut victory of the prosecution in the shape of a decision to admit evidence not mentioned in the impeachment articles, marked the seventh day of the trial before the high court.

Mr. Schiff, more sharply questioned than when he testified on Wednesday that Governor Sulzer was unrestricted in the use of Mr. Schiff's $2,500 check, made no admissions to the contrary. Interrogated by ex-Senator Brackett and then by several persistent senators, Mr. Schiff said that his indorsement on the check, "Mr. Schiff's contribution for William Sulzer's campaign expenses," was just a mode of expression, "a hurriedly made note of expression."

Being asked why he gave the check to Louis A. Sarecky, Governor Sulzer's depositor of campaign funds, he replied that it was because Mr. Sulzer asked him to. He testified that the gift was charged against his personal account with Kuhn, Loeb & Co. In the books of that firm he said there is no entry as to the purpose of the check.

Even more interesting than this was Mr. Schiff's avowal that a few weeks ago, since the fact of the contribution became public, Governor Sulzer, through his former law partner, Samuel I. Frankenstein, offered to refund the $2,500. Mr. Schiff declined to consider the offer because the transaction was then being investigated by the Frawley committee.

He also told the court that he gave $1,000 to Oscar Straus's campaign fund after the latter's nomination for governor by the Progressives. Later, when Mr. Sulzer was nominated by the Democrats, he supported him. He said that he thought Mr. Sulzer was better entitled to the election, "so far as I felt concerned." He declared that he "felt strongly about Mr. Sulzer's merits."

It was because of this gift to Mr. Straus, said Mr. Schiff, that he declined to give William Sulzer more than $2,500 when the Democratic candidate called on him and said, "Can't you make it any more?"

The lawyers for both prosecution and defense expressed satisfaction over Mr. Schiff's testimony.

FIGHTING TO THE DEATH

No Quarter Given or Asked in the Latest Balkan Brawl.

London, Sept. 26.—There is no striking news from Albania and no particular developments. The fighting is said to be still going on. The Albanians, it is reported, have captured more Servian positions and are said to be attacking Frierend. The most important item in the Balkans, if it is true, is that Turkey recently called her Anatolian conscripts to the ranks and has taken other warlike measures which is taken to confirm the report of Turkey's determination to defy the treaty of London and try to recover her lost territories.

From Vienna comes a report that no quarter is being given in the fighting between the Servian troops and the Albanians. All prisoners taken by either side are instantly shot.

NECK BROKEN IN SALOON

Indiana Young Man Victim of Scuffle at Danville, Ill.

Danville, Ill., Sept. 26.—Following a scuffle in Haines's saloon, Ed Fowler, son of Harry Fowler, a farmer residing just across the Indiana state line, was found dying on the floor with a broken neck. Otis Riggles, formerly of Lafayette, was arrested as a witness, and the police are seeking Thomas Morgan, a Big Four switchman, who is accused of being the one who strong-armed Fowler.

He Tried to Save His Hat.

Lafayette, Ind., Sept. 26.—George Turnough, sixty-eight years old, member of the Indiana state soldiers' home, was probably fatally injured when he fell from the Main street bridge to the water, forty feet below. He was watching the work on the temporary bridge when his hat blew off. He reached for it, and, losing his balance, fell.

Horse Thief Convicted.

Shooting Followed Political Argument. Will Create Game Preserve.

Chandler, Ind., Sept. 26.—Farmers of this neighborhood are preparing to post 1,000 acres of land for five years, and will stock the territory with wild game of various kinds.

RHEUMATISM AND BRIGHT'S DISEASE

Prof. Budlong Was Quickly Relieved of Both Affliction by Using Rheuma.

If you suffer from any form of Rheumatism, remember that RHEUMA goes to work quickly to remove the cause, not simply to relieve the distress. Many years' use has demonstrated that it goes to the seat of the disease and expels the poisonous matter through the natural channels—the Kidneys, bowels, liver and skin.

"For many years I was troubled with Rheumatism, also with Bright's Disease of the Kidneys. I suffered awfully. Tried many advertised remedies. After using your truly remarkable preparation, RHEUMA, I was fully cured."—Prof. C. J. Budlong, Sound View, Conn.

Democratic Currency Bill.

Among other things resolutions passed at the New York state convention of Republicans denounced the pending currency measure of the Democratic congress as wholly unsound and unfit for present day needs.

"We denounce the Democratic banking and currency bill," says the resolutions, "as a menacing the business interests of the country and is inimical to the interests of the whole people because it rests upon and embodies three false principles:

"1. That the interests of the owners and managers of banks and those of business men and the public generally are in conflict. In fact, all these interests are identical.

"2. That paper money should be issued by the government and should involve the government's credit. This is unsound, unscientific and condemned by experience. It is but a short step from this to greenbackism.

"3. That the control and administration of the banks should be taken in large part from those who have established and own them, and lodged in a board of political appointees. This is a new, radical and most dangerous departure from American practice. It is as unwise as it is unnecessary. Government supervision and inspection of national banks have been highly successful for half a century and have afforded ample protection to the public interests.

"Should this bill be enacted into law in its present form, it would be easily possible for the people to lose all that they gained by the vetoes of inflation measures by President Hays in 1878, by the successful fight against the compulsory purchase of silver led by President Cleveland in 1893, and by the victory of President McKinley on a gold standard platform in 1896. The powerful support of William Jennings Bryan has been secured for this pending bill by the surrender, in form or in fact, of the sound money principles for which Presidents Grant, Hayes, Cleveland and McKinley stood, and in favor of the inflation doctrine which Mr. Bryan made his own in 1896, and which has been overwhelmingly rejected by the American people.

Fires and Carelessness.

The greater part of the annual fire waste in the United States, amounting to nearly $250,000,000 a year, is due to carelessness. Much of this is personal, for which property owners are directly responsible, and much is municipal, through the toleration by the authorities of dangerously inflammable construction, laxity in the enforcement of building ordinances and the regulation of explosives and inflammables, failure to insist upon rubbish being cleaned up, etc. The average citizen should have impressed upon him his personal responsibility for his share of the preventable fire waste of the country, which is draining the national wealth. Every man can at least see that paper, old boxes and rubbish are not allowed to accumulate in dangerous places or out-of-the-way corners, and can keep an eye on his lighting appliances. If these alone are attended to properly nearly half the fires could be prevented. In foreign countries the owner of property is made responsible for fires originating on his premises and can be held for damages done the property of his neighbors. American independence may not yet be ready for such a degree of regulation, but its necessity could be avoided if each citizen

Hats Shown at Annual Openings Here Are Simple and Sensible

The feminine part of Rushville is spending the greater part of its time nowadays raving over the newest in millinery, which is on display at all of the fall openings, beginning yesterday. There may have been dreams in women's hats before, it is declared, but never any like this year—and to top it off, they are said to be very sensible, which is, to say the least, a rare combination.

There is such a variety of colors and shapes shown, and so many pretty novelties to be seen, that it is little wonder the shopper is bewildered. The hats are small, very few large hats being shown, but what they lack in width is made up in height. Feathers stand straight up either at the back or at the front and while the hats are for the most part close fitting, they are usually turned straight up either at the back or front, or wherever the trimming is worn.

The gowns are very extreme and many of them will be a trying style for most women to wear, but the hats are not. They are much more sensible than for several seasons past, and it will indeed be a woman hard to suit who does not find what she can becomingly wear this season. Last year felt hats were most popular. This year few are displayed. Velvet and plush and fur make the hats this year, and the richness of the material used in the shape really calls for little trimming. The new shades are for the most part really old shades with another name. Hague blue, mahogany prune, Tete de Negre (one of the brown shades) and September Morn are some of the new names for old shades, Taupe is again very popular both in suits and millinery. One of the handsomest hats shown is of taupe velvet, made with collapsible crown, and the brim turned up sharply all around. Edgings are short, fluffy ostrich tips in the same shade.

would feel his personal responsibility without waiting for a law to enforce it.

Republicans in the city of Rushville never had juster cause to feel elated over the prospects for victory in the coming city election, if they will but consider the returns from the last election. They show that the low man on the Republican ticket in Rushville township had more votes than either the high man on the Democratic or Bull Moose tickets. Albert J. Beveridge, the third party's candidate for governor who led the ticket in this township, won 313 votes in the township. The Democrats cast 707 votes for Ralston in Rushville township, and he led the ticket. The Republicans in the township cast 854 votes for Durbin, who was the lowest man on the Republican ticket. This a majority of 147 votes over the Democratic candidate. There is no reason to believe that the same proportion did not exist in the city, because in the last election there was very little variation in the difference between the votes on the three tickets in all divisions of the county. Contrary to what some enemies of the Republican party may say, it is bound to win in the coming city election.

Attorney General McReynolds has announced that the Sherman anti-trust law, the Taft administration measure, is plenty good enough for him and that he can apply it very well and get the ends desired. But before the Democrats were in power at Washington the Sherman law was wholly bad—it was nefarious. We have had a sneaking suspicion for some time that most of the political bunk the Democrats turned loose last fall was to get on, and not to be used after getting in.

The Free Trade Saturday Evening Post, in commenting on the pending Democratic currency measure, says that any legislation that pleases nobody is good legislation. Applying the same assertion to the Payne-Aldrich tariff bill, it seems, would bring the same conclusions, but the Post would hardly consider such an attitude.

What Our Neighbors Are Talking About DAY HAS PASSED.

(Connersville News.)

In other days when Dun and Bradstreets talked hopefully of the future outlook for business certain Democratic journals were want to brand them as hirelings of the powerful Republican organization and that they were saying pleasant things about the chances for the growth of business purely for political affect. Now Dun and Bradstreets are sending out reports well calculated to encourage business but nobody questions their honesty as these agencies in long years of faithful service have proved themselves true prophets. Happily the kind of "Journalism" that then prevailed is going out of style and let it be hoped it will never come back.

Society News

The members of the First Baptist church gave a "Tin" shower to Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Steffy in honor of their tenth wedding anniversary, on Tuesday evening. A very enjoyable evening was spent and all the guests wished Mr. and Mrs. Steffy many more years together and that they may always have plenty of "tin."

The wedding of Miss Lorene Smith, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Frank Smith, and Ralph Miles, son of Mr. and Mrs. Franklin D. Miles of Raleigh, took place yesterday afternoon at five o'clock at the Smith family home 1022 North Main street. Only the immediate members of the two families were present.

The ceremony was performed by Dr. Virgil W. Tewis, and a very impressive ring service was used. Mrs. Ed Chambers of Raleigh played the wedding march. Mrs. Chambers also played the wedding march when Dr. and Mrs. Smith, parents of the bride, were married.

Miss Smith wore a beautiful blue crepe meteor dress, trimmed in Bulgarian, with vest effect, and a large black picture hat with white plumes. She also wore some of the wedding apparel of her mother. The bride's going away suit was a beautiful tailored one of Holland blue, with hat and gloves to match.

The colors used in the decorations were white and yellow. Golden rod was arrayed most advantageously about the interior of the home and gave a most pleasing effect. An elaborate dinner was served immediately following the ceremony.

Mr. and Mrs. Miles left at once for a wedding tour to Columbus and Cincinnati, Ohio and they will be at home at Raleigh in a newly-furnished home after October 1. Mr. Miles is a graduate of Purdue university and is a member of a college fraternity. The bride is the eldest daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Smith and is an accomplished musician. She was organist at the St. Paul M. E. church.

The couple received many beautiful wedding gifts, among them being a piano which was presented by the parents of the bridegroom. The bride has many treasures as the result of showers given by Mrs. Ed Chambers and the Misses Esther and Helen Black during the time of her engagement.

ANOTHER FROST TONIGHT

Weather Man Says There Will be a Big Fall in Temperature.

The weather man persisted for three days in predicting rain, and finally, today it rained although only for a very short while. In addition today it was much colder and the weather forecaster says that it will be even colder than that tonight when the first frost for this section of Indiana this season is bound to put in its appearance. Sixty-two was the maximum temperature today, as compared to a high temperature of seventy-five yesterday.

CHAPTER VIII.

Wherein I Make All Clear to My Little Mistress.

MY pistol was still in my hand, and she made a clutch at it, but I was too quick for her. I caught her by the wrist. The spell she had cast upon us by her sudden entrance, her beautiful presence, her proud, brave demeanor, was broken by that touch. The men laughed. The remembrance of that laugh makes my blood boil even now.

"I wish you joy of her," said one. "You will have a time taming her," cried a second.

"Ah, you think so!" I cried, determining to carry out the deception to the bitter end and to leave no chance for the least suspicion to arise. I seized her by the shoulders, secretly praying God to forgive me for what I was about to do, and shook her violently back and forth. It was easy enough. A baby in my hands would not have been more helpless. "Silence, you fools!" I cried as the men began to laugh again, and then to her: "You belong to me, woman. Do you hear? I've bought you. I am your master. Get back into your cabin. I will have speech with you later." Helpless, she could do nothing. I thrust her into the cabin, shut the door and faced the men. "Will you gentlemen leave me alone to tame this she devil for a little while, and I will be on deck presently," I panted out.

"Very well," said Pimball, "but before we go"—he pointed to a heavy bottle in the rack—"I propose that we drink the health of the new navigator and his lady."

"Right-o!" said I. I reached for the glasses that were in the rack and poured out a stiff dram for each man and added mighty little water to it. The room was soon filled with mocking, jeering toasts to my health and happiness. I drank with the rest, although I would rather have swallowed poison. They went out one by one. Pimball last.

"I wish you joy of your woman," he sneered.

"You will see how tame she is to-morrow," I laughed as he climbed up the ladder and soon disappeared. To throw open the door of the cabin was the work of a minute. There she stood. She had twisted some kind of a rope out of the sheets which she had hastily torn up. Her purpose was plain. She had intended to end her life by hanging herself from the hook in the deck beam above to which one end of her rope was secured, and she would have done it, too, if I had not come in in the nick of time.

I stared at her for a moment and then reached forward and tore the plaited strands out of her hand and from around her neck and threw them to the deck. It was evidence to me of the deepness of her despair that she had attempted such a thing. It showed me for one thing the excellence of my acting. I had convinced even her of my villainy, I realized with a sudden pang.

Hard as I stared at her, the glance that she shot back at me in intensity, if not expression, matched my own. I never want to see such loathing, such contempt, such scorn on a human countenance again. It cut me to the heart. "A moment," she said wildly, "and I had done it, traitor!" "Nay, nay," I protested, "I am a true man."

"You bargained for me; you bought me!"

"I was not in earnest," I cried, but she interrupted me in a perfect tempest of outraged feeling. "My God!" she burst out. "Why didn't you stay away a little longer? You dog! You vile, low!"

But at that I found voice again, for I was getting angry myself, my temper naturally being none the sweeter, save ordinarily when she was concerned.

"Hear me," I interrupted in turn. "Not a word."

"But indeed you must," I persisted, stepping within her cabin and carefully closing the door after me. "It is your welfare alone that I seek. I think you should have known that."

"After the insult on the quarterdeck last evening?" she asked cuttingly.

"Madam," said I, controlling myself again, but with added difficulty, "our concern is not with kisses, but with—"

"What?"

"Life and—"

I hesitated.

"What else? Speak on!"

"Your honor," I said slowly, whereat she stared at my face, doubtless stern enough in all conscience.

What I had to say concerned us both so deeply that I cared not what she said, and perhaps that closed cabin into which I had penetrated was the likeliest place for privacy in the whole ship. I could by no means be overheard, so I determined to speak freely in a way not to be misunderstood.

"I mean you no harm. Can you not see it?" I burst out. "It was all a play."

"A play!" she panted. "The murder of the captain, the mutiny of the men, the seizure of the ship, the giving up the chart, your purchase"—she drew herself up—God, she was a brave little thing—"of me," she continued, "with your share of the treasure—was that a play?"

"Part of it, madam," said I, stung by her scorn and stunned again by the thought that she could ever have believed me capable of such baseness, who had loved her, worshiped her and—but for that fleeting moment when I had kissed her—had ever treated her with such humble consideration. "I bought not you."

"What then?"

"The right to live and serve you; the right for you to live unharmed and—"

"And what?"

"And be served by me with no thought but for your safety and happiness."

She stared at me in deep consternation, her brow furrowed. I had wit enough to be silent and let the speech work.

"Have I wronged you?" she asked falteringly at last.

"What would your fate be if you were left to that murderous rabble on the deck yonder?"

She shuddered as I pressed the thought home to her.

"You should have known me better," I continued reproachfully, "than to have suspected?"

"But your insult to me this very night on the quarterdeck?"

"Is a man to be condemned beyond pardon who has served you truly because he snatches a kiss in a moment of madness and forgets it when your life and honor tremble in the balance?"

"I do not think even you could forget that ever," she said, and I could not fathom exactly her purpose in that remark.

Did she not want me to forget it? Or would she have me remember it? But this seemed like trifling. I turned away bitterly, but she caught me by the arm instantly.

"What are you about to do?" she began. "Don't abandon me now. I believe in you. I see now why you did it. It was to save me and help me. What would I do, what could I do without you? I am"—she hesitated; it was hard for her proud spirit—"I am sorry," she finished.

"Say no more," I answered, looking down at the little hand on my sleeve, my soul thrilling to her words and touch. "No harm shall come to you save over my dead body, and that is not enough for me to promise. I mean to extricate you from this peril."

"But is it possible?"

"I think so; I pray so."

"You are one against so many."

"I have one ally in the ship, you forget," said I, smiling at her, relieved and thankful to see her in her right mind again and awake to the truth and my real feeling toward her.

"And that is—"

"Yourself."

"A feeble helper," she rejoined, smiling in turn.

"We shall see."

"And will you forgive me for having misjudged you?" she asked pleadingly.

"Gladly."

"My hand on it, then," she said, holding out her little palm which I swallowed up in my large one on the instant, standing silent as usual, holding it the while.

"And are you not sorry that you—you—kissed me?" she faltered at last.

"No," I answered bluntly enough—being a plain man I have always felt compelled to tell the truth—except, perhaps, when her interests were at stake—"I am not sorry." But as she swiftly tried to draw her hand away I added, "I promise you I won't do it again, and you will forgive me, I know. Meanwhile we have much to plan. We may be interrupted any time and we had best get at it."

I released her hand and she faced me calmly enough.

"You don't know how much safer I feel when I have you to depend upon," she said.

How my heart leaped at that assurance and I saw that she had indeed forgiven me.

"I shall leave everything to you, Master Hampdon," she continued. "Do you tell me what to do, and I will do it."

"I know you will. I could not ask a braver, better second," I answered heartily.

At that moment I heard a step on the ladder. Somebody was coming. Quick as a flash I realized the part we had to play in public. I balled my fist and struck the bulkhead savagely. I suppose I must have changed my expression as well, for in her surprise she screamed faintly.

"That's it," I whispered, "scream again, louder, louder."

"What do you mean?" she asked in incomprehensible amazement, in this crisis my wits working quicker than hers.

"There is somebody outside. We have a part to play. I am abusing you and you are fighting," I whispered swiftly. Then louder, fairly shouting at her indeed, I cried, "Down on your knees, wench. You will find that you have met your master now."

I made some sound of scuffle and she did indeed scream loudly. In the midst of the commotion the door was tried, but fortunately I had turned the key.

"Who's there?" I shouted, and to my lady whispered, "Beg for help!"

Entering into the spirit of the game and smiling at me, since there was none but I to see, albeit she infused strange terror in her voice, so that I was amazed myself, she cried at the top of her voice:

"Help! Help!"

I in turn called louder yet:

"Silence, woman!" and struck the bulkhead again.

Finally turning to the door I opened it a bit, and there stood one of the younger seamen.

"What want you?" I began sternly and stormily. "I don't care to be disturbed just now."

"You are wanted on deck. It is just dawn. Land has been sighted, and there's a heavy sea running. Pimball an' Glibby want your counsel and advice what's to be done."

"Good!" said I. "I will be with you in a moment. Tell them I have yet a word or two to say to this woman here."

The man turned on his heel, passed through the cabin and climbed the ladder to the deck.

"Now," I said quickly, thrusting one of my pistols into my little mistress' hand, "we can talk no longer this time. I am going to do my best for you, and if I fail here is a weapon. You know what to do with it."

"Shall I use it on them?"

"No, lass," I answered grimly, "on yourself if it comes to the worst."

"I understand," she said, paling a little.

"Lock the door when I go out, and on no account open to any voice but mine."

"I shall remember."

"And keep up the acting," I said. "Whimper and cower away whenever we are seen together."

"I shall not forget," she said, standing very straight, looking at me bravely, her eyes shining.

"And now goodbye!"

I turned away, but she caught me by the shoulder. She extended her hand rather high. I was not too dumb not to understand what she wanted, and so I bent and kissed it, and it was no light kiss of gallantry, but I pressed my lips passionately against the little hand.

"May God keep you," she said as I turned away, breathing the "Amen" I dare not speak.

I heard the key turn in the lock behind me, and with a heart full of misgivings in spite of my stern and resolute purpose, I came out on deck again.

Mrs. Firstyear—"Anty Drudge, Tom and I were celebrating our anniversary at a restaurant the other night and the clumsy waiter spilled gravy all down the side of my nice new suit. Isn't that too bad!"

Anty Drudge—"Well, dearie, have you forgotten what I told you about Fels-Naptha Soap? Anybody who's been using it for a year, as you have, ought to know that it will take out grease spots."

Don't be discouraged about things that seem topile up and never get done. There are over a million women who have stopped slaving day in and day out. They use Fels-Naptha.

Fels-Naptha will help you. It will do the hard part of your work for you. It will make housework seem a pleasure instead of a nightmare. It will wash clothes clean and white without hard rubbing or boiling. It works best in cool or lukewarm water.

Follow the easy directions on the Red and Green Wrapper. Better buy Fels-Naptha by the carton or box.

A NEW CANCER CURE BEING INVESTIGATED

Substitute for Radium Promises Great Things.

London, Sept. 26.—A few minor paragraphs from Germany this week do not appear to have done justice to the new cancer treatment which is being eagerly discussed in the German medical world. A fuller account which is now available proves that even if a cure for cancer has not been found, at least a substitute for radium has been discovered which is far cheaper than that costly element and also much more plentiful, although it is extremely expensive. It is also safer to use than radium. This new element is a by-product of a certain monacite sand from South America, and has been named mesothorium.

Optimists claim an effectual treatment for cancer has at last been discovered. Even the more cautious of the physicians do not deny that the wonderful results have been achieved, but they demand a longer period for experiments and tests.

Up to the present from 100 to 150 cases have been treated with the new element with astonishing results. After the treatment and generally within a few days, the outward signs of cancer disappear, the pain ceases and the general health improves, while a microscopic examination, when the parts affected can be reached that way, generally shows that there is not a trace of the disease left. It is freely admitted that mesothorium will not cure cases that are very far developed, but even in these it alleviates the pain and prolongs the life of the patient. The great advantage of mesothorium over radium is its comparative cheapness, although the enormous sum of $50,000 per gramme is being asked for it.

SKIDS DOWN EMBANKMENT

Auto Accident Kills Mother and Fatally Injures Daughter.

Frankfort, Ind., Sept. 26.—Mrs. Fred Bailey, forty-three years old, wife of a prominent Clinton county stock buyer of Middleford, is dead and her daughter Freda, nineteen years old, was probably fatally injured when an automobile in which they were riding jumped from a bridge and plunged down an embankment nineteen feet. Mr. Bailey, who was driving the car, escaped with slight injuries.

Had Minor Girls in His Place. Vincennes, Ind., Sept. 26.—William G. Stephens, proprietor of a cafe, was found guilty of contributing to the delinquency of young girls, given six months in jail and a $150 fine. It was proved by witnesses that girls under age smoked, drank and danced the "bear cat" with men in Stephens's place.

One of the Most Daring in the Country.

HE SERVED IN TWO STATES

Investigation of the Record of James Simpson, Held at Lebanon on the Charge of Stealing Horses From Boone County Farmers, Reveals That He Had Done Time in Both Ohio and Indiana.

Indianapolis, Sept. 26.—James Simpson, fifty-two years old, of Springfield, O., arrested here Sept. 9 for the alleged theft of a buggy and two horses from Boone county farmers, has been identified as one of the most daring horse thieves ever known to operate in Indiana and Ohio.

The identification and disclosure of Simpson's alleged connection with many other crimes followed the receipt of Bertillon measurements from the Ohio state penitentiary, where a man known as William Allen, alias Andrew Simpson, served two terms of three years each for horse stealing. The Indiana state prison also sent Bertillon measurements and photographs identifying Simpson, as he is known here, as the man who served time there for grand larceny.

He was sentenced, the Michigan City prison authorities say, from Randolph county May 7, 1908, to serve from one to eight years. He was paroled and pardoned March 9, 1912. Simpson, then known as Allen, was first sentenced to the Ohio penitentiary in 1885 and served three years. He was sent up again in 1894 and served another three years. Simpson now is being held at Lebanon, Ind., awaiting trial. With him at the time of his arrest was Ora Wall, who confessed to the Boone county robberies and implicated Simpson.

LESLIE STEFFY INDICTED

Grand Jury Charges Him With Killing His Sweetheart.

Winamac, Ind., Sept. 26.—Samuel Leslie Steffy, alias Leroy Smith, indicted by the grand jury on the charge of murdering Pearl Hettinger, eighteen years old, daughter of Luther Hettinger, was arrested by Sheriff Zellers at Knox. The murder was committed Nov. 16 last, six miles south of here. The girl lived with her father, and Steffy boarded with him. There were no witnesses to the shooting, and Steffy declared that a rifle standing behind a bureau accidentally fell and killed the girl, and the coroner pronounced death accidental. Steffy and the girl were to have been married a week after the shooting. Steffy has a wife and five children in Oklahoma. Steffy was recently acquitted of robbing the Gilsinger store at Pulaski. Hettinger, the girl's father, also has been indicted on a charge of assault and battery with intent to kill his wife, the stepmother of the girl.

Officers of Federation of Labor.

Terre Haute, Ind., Sept. 26.—The Indiana Federation of Labor elected these officers: President, Charles Fox, Terre Haute; vice president, Timothy O'Brien, Indianapolis; secretary-treasurer, George J. Schwab, Evansville. Fort Wayne gets the convention next year.

Knotts Supporter Shot.

Gary, Ind., Sept. 26.—Dan Delich, saloon keeper, a worker for the Citizens' party, was arrested charged with the shooting of John Marcu, a Knotts worker, who was hit by two bullets in front of Delich's saloon. The shooting followed a political argument, but Delich's friends say that he was inside the saloon at the time of shooting. Marcu is at the Mercy hospital and may die.

M. S. Sonntag of Evansville was elected president of the Indiana Bankers' association.

October 12, the gift winning poems will be published.

The gifts, which consist of five sets of the first edition of the Biographical Edition of the Complete Works of James Whitcomb Riley, which is now in the course of preparation, will be sent the children who are awarded the first five places, on the day the books come from the press.

The poetry shower should serve not only to increase the interest in the Riley day exercises, which may be held again this year as they have been for the last two years on the poet's birthday, but will give the children an opportunity to do original work in a line of endeavor that is rarely found in the regular curriculum of the public schools. It will serve to stimulate interest in poetry in general, and, above all, in the poetry of the great Hoosier poet, whose verse, in its simplicity and truthfulness, is so rich in tender feeling and universal in its appeal.

Gurney Hinchman yesterday found a valuable watch on the Mays and Dunreith pike near Raleigh which Larry Knecht had lost several days ago and it was returned to the owner

TWO THINGS to KNOW ABOUT Knit Underwear

There are two things you ought to know about underwear. One is, the name of the best underwear, and the other is, where to get it. Both these are answered in and the fact that we carry it. You should see the excellent display of Forest Mills underwear, which we are now showing in a full range of styles and prices. With this splendid knitwear, we can clothe any man, woman, or child in a union suit or separate garments—not the kind that stretch to fit, but are tailored to fit.

FOREST MILLS UNDERWEAR

In ladies' tailored union suits especially does this line excel, offering light, medium, or heavy weight in cotton, wool, or silk and wool; sleeveless, elbow or long sleeve, high or low neck, and knee or ankle length.

We introduce this year, too, the Burkland Shirt for infants and children—an improvement on the Reuben Shirt in that no pins are required. Let us solve your underwear problems has proven its worth to anyone who has worn it. This hosiery has so consistently upheld its reputation through the many years that it has been carried by this store, that we unhesitatingly recommend it to all men, women and children. The style, the weight, the color you want is most probably here.
